DAYTON MAN SENTENCED TO FIVE YEARS IMPRISONMENT FOR SEXUAL ABUSE OF A MINOR

DAYTON -- Matthew Stuemke, age 33, of Dayton was sentenced in United States District Court here today to five years imprisonment and three years of supervised release. Stuemke pleaded guilty in August, 2007 to one count of sexual abuse of a minor.

Gregory G. Lockhart, United States Attorney for the Southern District of Ohio, and Lee Porter, Special Agent in Charge, Air Force Office of Special Investigations, Detachment 101, announced the sentence handed down today by United States District Judge Walter H. Rice.

According to a statement of facts filed with his plea agreement last August, Stuemke engaged in multiple sexual acts with the victim, a female minor child who was 14 years old at the time, between July 1, 2004 and January 31, 2005. The sexual acts involved sexual intercourse on approximately seven different and distinct occasions and the victim performing oral intercourse with the defendant one occasion. All of the above described events took place at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio. Stuemke is not in the military.

Stuemke also admitted that he engaged in similar conduct with two other victims, one age 14 and one age 13, on one occasion each.

U.S. Marshals took Stuemke into custody immediately.

“Those who prey on children for their own sexual gratification pose a significant danger to the community,” Lockhart said. “Our efforts are aimed at stopping those who pose such a danger.”

Stuemke will have to register as a sex offender after his release from prison.

Lockhart commended the investigation by special agents of the Air Force Office of Special Investigations, and Assistant U.S. Attorney Laura Clemmens, who prosecuted the case.
